What You'll Learn

In the online master's in educational administration, you will explore various administrative roles; learn about education law; examine the national context for education in the U.S.; and focus on how to develop, support and manage staff members—a broad overview of everything you'll need to successfully lead a school or district. Your studies will culminate with either a building leadership internship experience or an elective course designed to deepen your knowledge of one or more elements of the facility experience that most interests you.

Career Outcomes

Graduates of the building leadership track often move forward in their careers as administrators in their school or district, including roles as department heads, assistant principals, principals, or athletic directors, or as leaders in nonadministrative roles such as superintendents, school board presidents, or district directors.

Graduates from the non-licensure track typically use their knowledge of education administration to further their careers as educators, consultants, and advocates.
